

THE RED BLACK GAME

Scoring

- If Team 1 votes black and Team 2 votes black both teams get plus 3 points.
- If Team 1 votes black and Team 2 votes red, Team 1 gets minus 5 and Team 2 gets plus 5.
- If Team 1 votes red and Team 2 votes black, Team 1 gets plus 5 and Team 2 gets minus 5.
- If Team 1 votes red and Team 2 votes red, Team 1 gets minus 3 points and Team 2 gets minus 3 points.
- Now the object of the game as I have said is to get the most plus points possible.
- In the third frame each team gets double points.
- And in the sixth frame each team gets triple points for whatever they score.

How to Play

- Now when we break up into the two teams and Team 2 goes out into the hall you will have three minutes in which to vote for each frame.
- Everyone must vote in each frame and the majority vote wins. There is no passing on voting. Everyone must vote in each frame.
- Each team must elect a leader. The leader will count the votes, mark down what the vote is and tally the score. Both teams must vote in one frame at a time.
- You cannot move on to the next frame until each team has voted and the vote has been communicated back and forth between the two teams.
- We will have a runner going back and forth communicating the vote. But when the runner comes into the room, they must make sure that the team has voted before he gives them the other team's vote.

Discussion

There will be many questions by the facilitator and from the participants. To get the most from the discussion, you should have experience with the psychology of human behaviour.
